

Ask Commerce: Investing Outside Stock Market Video Transcript

Do you know what you can do to be prepared for retirement?

Investing in the stock market is a given, but here are four other ways to build long term wealth. Invest in rental properties. It can help you make extra money each month.

Invest in a small business. This can be very rewarding because you'd likely be one of only a few investors, and your investment would significantly impact a small business more than it would on a big corporation.

It's also an investment in your community.

Start your own business. This is perhaps an investment in yourself, but owning a business does offer the potential for building long term wealth. And invest in commodities.

This can include physical materials like gold, silver, or livestock, and they can be complex future contracts or mutual funds.

Investing in commodities can hedge against inflation.

Regardless of your investment, you have many resources such as Commerce Bank to help you. Just ask commerce.
