

Rising Cost of School Sports

Video Transcript

Watching top athletes perform on the world stage is inspiring.

It might even motivate your child to want to ask about trying a new sport. Any parent with kids in school sports can attest that the hobby can get expensive fast from fees, equipment, and travel, but there are a few ways to save money.

Do your research and shop around. Different clubs or programs might have varying fees.

Buy secondhand equipment or see if a friend or family member has gear they're willing to pass down and team up.

Carpool and share travel costs with other families. Don't let costs hold you back.

There are many ways to afford youth sports.
